

---

Global disease burden and funding – explaining the disparities

In 2011, $7.7 billion was allocated to HIV/AIDS projects, while malaria, TB, and maternal, newborn and child health received $1.8 billion, $1.3 billion, and $6.1 billion respectively. NCDs received only 1.5% of all health aid. Sam Byfield explores the reasons for these disparities in funding.

More info [1]

Post Date: Monday, 16 junio, 2014

---

Source URL: <https://ncdalliance.org/es/news-events/news/global-disease-burden-and-funding-%E2%80%93-explaining-the-disparities>

Enlaces

[1] http://www.whydev.org/global-disease-burden-and-funding-explaining-the-disparities/?fb\_action\_ids=10154286451690691&fb\_action\_types=og.likes&utm\_content=buffer62c36&utm\_medium=social&utm\_source=twitter.com&utm\_campaign=buffer