Language English

The Global Health Advocacy Incubator (GHAi) supports civil society organizations who advocate for public health policies that reduce death and disease.

We consider health a fundamental human right, and we must take action to promote and protect it. We believe advocating for evidence-based policies is a means to achieve positive public health outcomes.

About GHAI

The Global Health Advocacy Incubator builds local partner capacity to lead and sustain policy advocacy. We provide our partners with direct, systematic, ongoing technical assistance and capacity-building support. We capture best practices that can be shared with partners, within and across countries, to continuously improve our approach.

We have helped civil society pass or strengthen more than 250 policies that improve health and save lives, in countries around the world and diverse political systems. We consider health a fundamental human right, and we must take action to promote and protect it. We believe advocating for evidence-based policies is a means to achieving positive public health outcomes.

We believe policy change must be locally led and sustained. Our role is to enhance the ability of advocates to create the change they envision.
