Rethinking global health A prerequisite for achieving UHC

Against the backdrop of the 72nd World Health Assembly in Geneva, this side event will provide a platform to explore challenges, bottlenecks, and bold solutions for transforming and scaling up the NCD response. Panelists will explore big questions such as how do we ensure this goal of Universal Health Coverage (UHC) translates into tangible change for people trying to access, navigate, and receive quality health services? How do we ensure the very particular challenges of NCDs alongside other global health priorities are fully incorporated and addressed via national health benefit packages and insurance schemes, whilst remaining within reach for governments?

Two high-level panels comprising government ministers, leaders of health and development agencies, people living with NCDs and youth will be challenged to re-think global health in the lead up to the UN High-Level Meeting on UHC to best ensure we truly achieve Health for All.
